Red Ant Killer.

Did you ever hear of a household that didn't have an ant remedy? How many of these same households are not looking for a remedy that will really work? L. Haseman of the Missouri Agricultural Experiment Station has been giving special attention to the little red ant that usually causes more trouble than any other and has been able to kill it with the syrup made from half a pound of sugar and a fortieth of an ounce of sodium arsenate. The sprup should be made in a double boiler because if it is scorched the ants will not eat it and the poison must be carefully weighed by the druggist and no more than this must be added for two reasons. (1) It is a deadly poison and will be more likely to be dangerous to animals or persons who get it by mistake if less diluted. (2) If any more of it is used, the ants detect the taste and will not eat it.

Professor Haseman says that the ant has a very keen sense of taste and it is most contrary creature refusing to eat many of the things usually used in trying to get rid of him. In fact he finds that the little red nuisance eats this arsenic syrup better if it is put on sponges, rage, or blotting paper so it is seemingly harder to get than if on an open dish. If the soaked sponges or rags are put into tin cans or glass jars closed up except for a little crack as though put away to avoid the ants they seem to make special search for it and pass by open dishes of it in favor of the closed vessel.

Professor Haseman recommends this poison for the little red ants and says that the real way to get rid of any kind of ants whose nests can be found is to destroy the entire colony with boiling water or by pouring on carbon bisulphate which will choke or suffocate them if placed so that its poison gas can settle down into the nest.

FACT

Local Evidence.

Evidence that can be verified. Fact is what we want.

Opinion is not enough.

Opinions differ.

Here's a Lexington fact.

You can test it.

Mrs. Butler Talbott, 2107 Franklin Ave., Lexington, says: Disordered kidneys and inflammation of the bladder gave me intense suffering for months. I had trouble from the kidney secretions and suffered from dull, dragging backaches and pains through my kidneys. I was hardly able to work, and doctoring brought me no relief. Doan's Kidney Pills gave me relief from the whole trouble."

ON A LATER DATE, Mrs. Talbott said: "I can still recommend Doan's Kidney Pills highly, for the benefit they gave me has been permanent."

LIVED AND DIED CONTEMNED

Doubtful if the Marquis of Clanricarde Had Even One Sincere Friend or Real Mourner.

There died in London the other day a very old and very rich man, respected for his age and honored for his riches, and hated for his rigid rule of the 57,000 acres he owned in Ireland. A great landlord he was—"a hand to get money and a safe to keep it"—and his experience on earth was of the sort that makes enormous land holdings an uncomfortable investment, in the British isles and elsewhere.

The marquis of Clanricarde left behind him more enemies than friends. The children and children's children of tenants on his estate were born with a dread of his name. He represented the type of landlordism which is now passing, and which will not come again.

Poor people turned into the road, dispossessed of even the miserable property that had been allowed to them in return for lives of drudgery; tenants persecuted on evidence that never would stand in court; happy and peaceable men and women driven to the desperation of want—all of that and more could take place on 57,000 acres in Clanricarde's day. Lord Clanricarde fought the Irish evicted-tenants bill in 1907—and was hated again.

It will take generations, perhaps centuries, for England to bury that past.

FIRE HATCHES CROW'S EGGS.

Discovering a crow's nest atop a hemlock tree, Fritz Helmer climbed skyward 60 feet and got the three eggs in the nest. He placed the eggs in the pocket of his coat and on reaching home hung the coat near the open fireplace, in which large chunks of wood are burned all night in sour weather.

In the morning he heard a peculiar noise emanating from his coat, and on investigation found two young crows in his pocket. The third egg did not hatch out.—Winsted (Conn.) Dispatch Philadelphia Inquirer.

TO REVISE CHILD LAWS OF MISSOURI

Commission Plans to Help Assembly on Legislation Affecting Children.

The Children's code commission, appointed by Gov. Major in 1915, is planning to submit to the next General Assembly a complete revision of the Missouri laws relating to children. The reports of the various subcommittees deal with laws relating to defective children, delinquents, child labor, education, health and recreation, and social conditions. The drafting of the proposed laws will largely be done at the University of Missouri. Honorable Rhodes E. Cave of St. Louis is chairman of the commission, and Professor Manley O. Hudson of the School of Law of the University of Missouri at Columbia is secretary.

Professor Hudson is chairman of the Committee on Public Laws of the Commission, and in making his report he recommends that laws recognizing illegitimacy of children be abolished; that illegitimate children be given the same right of inheritance and transmission as are given to legitimate children, and that the natural parents be made liable for the support of the illegitimate child. It has been further recommended that the adoption of a child be made a court proceeding, but that no child, over 12 years old, should be adopted without his consent.

The other committees of the commission are likewise working on wise recommendations to assist the General Assembly in bringing about the needed changes in our present laws regarding children. Missouri is following the lead of Ohio in this movement, which is fast becoming general throughout the country.

Budweiser— and Other Foods

There's food value in beer—as well as beverage enjoyment. A bottle of Budweiser may not be offered as a complete meal—but it has its place in the meal comparable to bread, milk or any other of the dishes or drinks that are part of the well-balanced lunch or dinner.

The alcohol in beer (a small percentage) has its tonic value and its use as an appetizer. The hops have a nerve-soothing value. The malt not only has food value, but is, of all foods, one of the most quickly and easily turned by digestion into nourishment. By its very nature beer is especially thirst-satisfying.

Here are Two Little Charts

that show graphically and in figures comparisons between beer and other beverages and beer and other foods:

Comparative Nutritional Content		Comparative Alcohol Content
		Whisky
		Rhine Wine
		Beer
		Milk

Average Composition of	Bread	Milk	Beer	Rhine Wine	Whisky
Carbohydrates - - -	52.0%	4.8%	5.0%	2.25%	none
Protein - - - - -	7.0%	3.5%	0.5%	none	none
Fat - - - - -	0.40%	3.7%	none	none	none
Mineral Substances - -	1.0%	0.7%	0.2%	0.2%	none
Alcohol by weight - -	none	none	3.75%	8.0%	40.0%

When you think of beer for your table, of course you'll settle on Budweiser.

Grow High Quality Apples.

Quality commands price in all departments of trade. The higher the quality the greater is the price, regardless of the condition of the market. Recently the apple selling question has become more difficult each year, and the past season has been the most unsatisfactory one to growers for many years.

During May there were practically twice as many apples in cold storage as for the same period the preceding year. Consequently, prices are low on apples of all grades.

On the larger markets, however, high-grade western box apples, packed according to known and established standards, are moving quite freely at prices ranging from $1.75 to 2.25 a box. The choicest middle west stock in barrels is moving very slowly at prices ranging from half to two-thirds that of western stock. There is almost no sale for the ordinary so-called "standard" or "orchard-run" pack of fruit, even at prices that yield no profit to the producer.

Begin now to raise the standard of the Missouri commercial apple-pack for 1916. —F. W.

Teachers See New School Methods.

Under the direction of Prof. J. L. Martin, superintendent of University Schools at Columbia, a course in elementary school observation is being conducted for students of the summer session. There are 202 students taking observation work. Each observer is given an hour each day which means a total of 202 hours every day. The day's entire observations are completed within two hours. The course lasts three weeks.

The purpose of the observation course is to give demonstrations of the regular work done in the University Elementary School, which is a presentation of school work in the every day activities of big and little people," said Mr. Meriam.

Professor Meriam and two of his teachers will go to New York July 1 to conduct an Observation School in connection with the Teachers' College of Columbia University.

INDIANA MAN HAD A DELICATE LIVER

Made Friends Think He Would Not Live, But Black-Draught Liver

Medicine Brought Him Safely Through.

Loogootee, Ind.—Mr. Anthony Wilson, of this town, says: "I was born with a delicate liver, which caused a disordered stomach, and my growth was affected by a case of malarial fever. I spent considerable money for treatments, but without any permanent relief."

I commenced using Thedford's Black-Draught at the age of 10, and continued until I was grown, and it cured me, and I consider it a rapid cure in a case like mine.

The people around here said I would never live to be a man, but Thedford's Black-Draught fooled them all.

I am now 27 years of age, and don't have to use Black-Draught only during the change of seasons, to tone up my system. As for my liver trouble, it is gone for good.

I have made many new friends for Thedford's Black-Draught, for it has merit to recommend it."

Thedford's Black-Draught has been the standard household remedy for disorders of the liver, stomach and bowels for over 75 years. You run no risk in trying it for your troubles.
